Lying dormant
Movement ceasing
Then suddenly materializes
A metamorphosis.

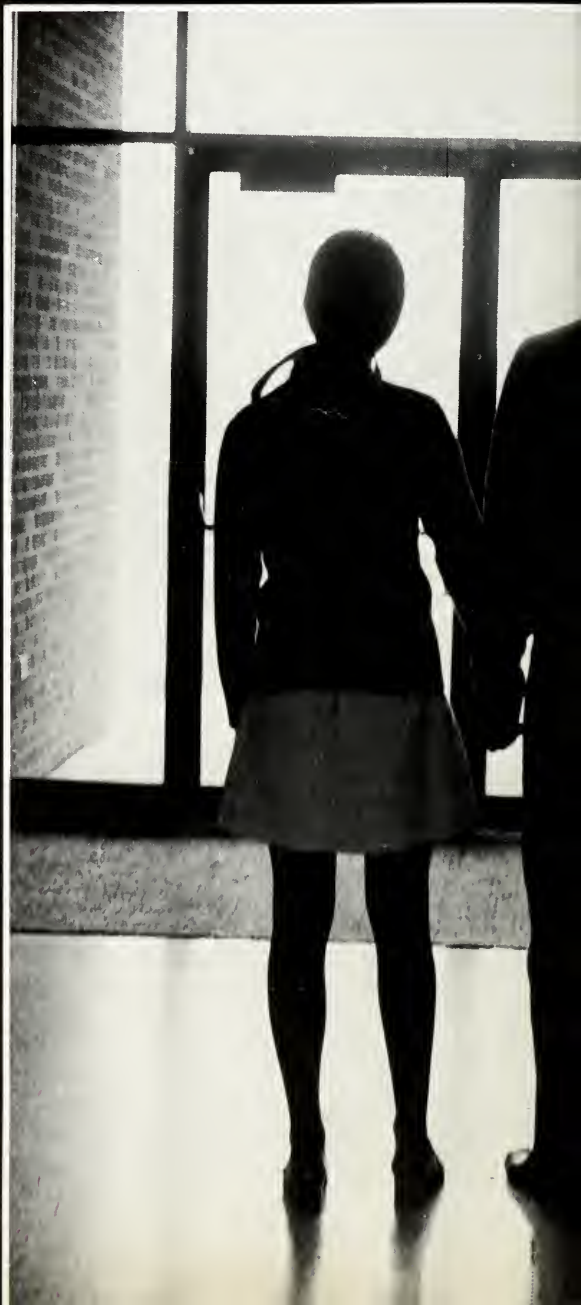

Frenzied activity becomes the key
With identity the lock.
... urgently searching
My responsibilities mount.
An atmosphere of a thousand questions
Cloud my mind.
And all the while ...
Anticipation.

A kalidescope of moods
Complicate
My search.
Solitude, dejection
Contentment, enjoyment
My joys, my triumphs
Always balanced
With defeat and sorrow.

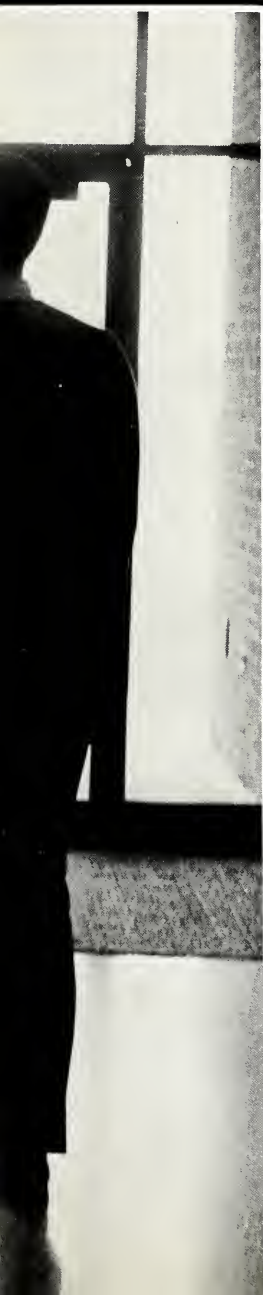

Alone . . .
 But not alone
 An individual in a crowd
 United in a cause
 Concerned and searching.
 An individual
 Surrounded by his own thoughts
 Is alone
 But never lonely.

I am not a stranger here.
 My soul is free
 To wander
 In search of companionship
 Reaching out
 To clasp
 The hand of a friend
 Whose smile
 Speaks to me of love.

I can be inactive
 An individual
 Without direction
 Or destiny
 Or . . .
 I can create,
 Accept, question
 And above all
 Think.

A collage of movement
 And never ceasing
 Activity through
 Freedom to express
 And create.
 I am happiness
 Personified.
 My existence is worthwhile
 Paved by TOTAL INVOLVEMENT.

Victory climaxes Homecoming

An idea was born; floats were assembled and a tradition was established.

Queen Debbie Kimmel reigned amid the clashing helmets of the football players and the screaming of the crowd.

It was Homecoming, October 3, 1970, Carroll's first.

"Charge 'Em Chargers."

It was cold. It was windy. But the impressive handmade floats survived the weather with the Seniors winning the coveted trophy.

Adding to the excitement were the precision marching of the band and the parading of the colorful drill team, both fighting the wind.

During half time of the football game, Brad Kimmel, representing the Student Council, crowned his sister Debbie amid gusts of wind.

She was flanked by a court consisting of Princesses Susie Homes and Terri Sells, and attendants Gail Dawson, Debbie Warner, Cindy Lahr and Katy Swearingen.

For a finale, the Chargers swept to a 8-0 victory over Adams Central.

Miss Cavalier reigns

Cindy Holmes was crowned as Miss Cavalier before a capacity audience on November 21. Competing against eight other contestants, she was selected by a panel of judges who rated the girls on their personality, p o i s e, talent and appearance.

Kelly Myers, a contestant from the Drama Club and Diane Mackel, FTA, were the other finalists.

Other candidates for the title were Connie Crance representing Y-Teens; Tara Karns, Pep Block; Karin Franklin, GAA; Leslie Peickert, NFL; Juanita Hayes, Spanish Club; and Marlene Striggle, Drill Team.

Follies is a big hit

The 1970 Carroll Follies presented a theatrical experience to long remember on November 4 and 5 in the newly finished auditorium.

Under the supervision of the Drama Club, intensive rehearsals plus unlimited talent combined to transform Carroll High students into near-professional entertainers.

Capable Master of Ceremonies Charles Pratt enabled the audience to thoroughly enjoy "Those Were the Days" at the first Carroll High Follies.

Bazaar brings culture

A bit of Mexico and Spain invaded Chargerland in early December bringing a festive spirit and international ideas to all who attended "El Bazar de Navidad."

Mexican pottery, jewelry, leather goods and baked items highlighted the affair. Books printed in Spanish were available at the bazaar, also.

Mexican tacos were the "red-hot" lunch specialty of the day.

The bazaar, sponsored annually by "El Circulo de Espanol," was held for three days. Students browsed and shopped during their study halls and parents were able to attend the bazaar after school hours.

The bazaar aids Carroll students in cultivating an appreciation of a culture unlike that of America.

Musical highlights Christmas

A miniature opera, "Amahl and the Night Visitors," a portrayal of the Christmas story, was presented by the high school chorus under the direction of Frederick Hepler.

The opera revolves around a crippled child, Amahl, who is blessed by a miracle from God. Diane Mackel portrayed Amahl, with Sharon Brumbaugh, Andy Gross, Randy Hull, John Wilson and Greg Brown in other leading roles.

BOTTOM-Neighboring peasants and shepherds present the three kings with gifts of food.

Mistletoe is magic

"A Moment Under the Mistletoe" was the theme of the annual Y-Teen Christmas Dance held on December 26.

The Carroll commons was transformed into a woodland scene for this festive and spirited occasion.

Mistletoe magic reflected the holiday spirit as the Y-Teens and their dates danced to the music of the Castaways.

BELOW—Couples dance under the magic spell of mistletoe, candle light and soft music.

Impossible things are happening

"Impossible, for a plain country bumpkin and a prince to join in marriage..."

Another enchanting musical was brought to the Carroll Auditorium under the direction of Frederick M. Hepler. Some 30 students found it possible to weather the rehearsals for dancing, singing and acting.

With the help of over 30 assistant backstage workers, CINDERELLA became a reality.

Theatrical production is viewed

On April 22, 23 and 24, Carroll High and the community had the opportunity to be a part of a very dramatic experience. With the help of the Drama Club and under the direction of Mrs. Carol Loomis, the three act comedy play, "Our Miss Brooks," was presented to the public.

Because of overwhelming reactions, the play was presented in two additional performances.

With all of its trials and tribulations, "Our Miss Brooks" became a great play.

Crowned by School Board President Jack McComb, Senior Diana Love reigns over the First Annual Carroll Relays on April 27.

Determination is a key factor for Jack Reusser as he jumps the low hurdles to place fourth.

First relay is chilly

Running through a chilly, piercing wind that nipped the warm blooded bodies of trackmen, eight schools competed for the coveted first place trophy in the debut of the Carroll Relays.

Beginning with the crowning of Queen Diana Love and her court of Dawn Herdman, Patti Kring and Teresa Striggle, the attention of the fans swiftly changed to the dashing couriers.

Rick Horstmeyer retained two trophies for CHS, winning both the long and high jumps.

Completing the day of fun, with Garrett the victorious school, the Carroll Carnival seemed the perfect finale to a day of thrills to children, young and old.

The Carroll Relays will be an annual event.

Exhausted Jim Kruse hands off the baton to a ready Brad Kimmel as they team up to place third in the distance medley relay.

Graduation

It's a beginning
Yet an end
Life admits newly-foaled
Forcing us to let go
We, the children gone by
We have laughed, dreamed
Smiled and loved
Then somehow lost
And now we find ourselves
No longer the children
We once were
But not yet
The men we shall be
We look ahead
Yet never forgetting
Where we have been.

ACADEMICS

Administration keeps composure during North Central evaluations

A visiting team from North Central arrived on March 2, 1971, to evaluate our school. The administration worked devising school policy, up-dating concepts and synchronizing school activities, personnel and curriculum in preparation for North Central. The results of all of their efforts will not be known until after the completion of the 1970-71 school year.

The determination and direction of district policies occupy board members. A few of their duties are working on budgeting, business affairs, and building and maintenance programs. Present school board members are Jack McComb, William Holmes, James Warner, Robert Barkley and Kenneth Blessing.

The secretary attends to the records and correspondence while the treasurer take care of the financial records and the accounts for the schools.

RIGHT—Concentrating on policies that are usable to the school system are Superintendent Bob Mantock, Asst. Superintendent James Mallers, Sec. Ellen McBride, and Tres. Lela Rinehold.

OFFICE GIRLS. Mr. Harry Andes' slaves, seated are as follows: J. Bosserman, D. Warner, Principal Harry Andes, D. Harmon. STANDING: M. Greig, J. Anderson, L. Worman, N. Krieger, J. Hedges, M. Martin, T. Malcolm, L. Johnson, R. Price, D. Blaugh.

FAR ABOVE—Carroll's principal, Mr. Andes, and assistant principal, Mr. Gorsuch, work together on school policies in order to keep our school running smoothly.

RIGHT—One of the many secretarial duties of Mrs. Herdman is working the stencil duplicating machine. Assisting her is Janet Anderson.

RIGHT—Jerry Dennison is doing his portion of Carroll High's custodial work.

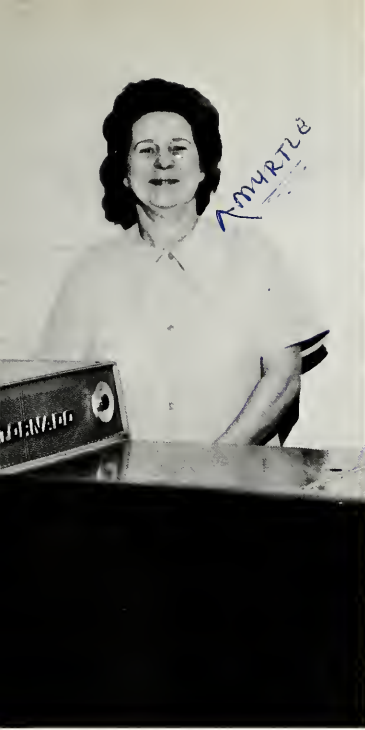

BELOW—Driving the school buses every morning and evening throughout the school year are Mrs. Trahin, Mrs. Porter, Mr. Adams, Mr. Sloffer, Mr. Felger, Mr. Shank and Mr. Smith.

FAR BELOW—The full time cafeteria staff is preparing to serve the Carroll students. The staff consists of Mrs. Marschand, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Hess, Mrs. Sloffer, and Mrs. Crabtree.

Personnel strives for an improved school

Helping students with curriculum and college choices are some of the duties of the counselors. They are also equipped to give advice about job opportunities, general information and personal problems.

The efficient custodial staff maintains maximum standards of operation. A few of their many duties are keeping the classrooms and halls immaculately clean, mowing grass and shoveling snow.

Providing daily lunches for Carroll students requires advanced planning on the part of the cafeteria staff. Under the direction of Mrs. Marschand, the members of the crew prepared over 600 lunches daily.

Through all kinds of weather the bus drivers pick up and deliver students to Carroll by 8:15 every morning. With many of the drivers running two routes, they keep a very busy schedule.

Language Department expands and improves

The English Department, Carroll's most studied subject (if not most loved), is feeling the pangs of growth and new times. Study in recent years has taken a turn toward the "relevancy of the times," including subject coordinating films, theatre study and contemporary literature.

Journalism I, Carroll's newest addition to the curriculum, was created to explore the arts of yearbook and newspaper production. It is a working introduction designed to give practical experience and prepare the novice students in taking over publications.

Contemporary Literature, a kind of specialized English class, deals with, again, the relevancy of the times. Several novels by current, popular authors are not just read, but dissected, discussed and debated.

Drama enables students, in the first semester, to study the performing arts, acting and the theatre. The second semester is devoted primarily to stagecraft work which includes the management of properties, scenery, costumes and make-up.

Classes explore world problems

As our country has become more entangled in world affairs, the students and teachers of Carroll feel the people of this country must become more informed on current happenings as well as social problems. For this reason, relevancy has become the theme for our Social Studies Department.

United States Government is designed to give future voters experience and information concerning our government at state, national and local levels. Part of this practical experience includes the study of our political systems and voting machine instruction.

Another segment of Carroll's Social Studies Department, economics, again gives practical experience, this time in the stock market. Students are "given $1,000" to buy, sell and speculate on stocks as they wish.

Exploratory teaching is a course set up as a teaching-learning experience for senior teachers-to-be. Students are assigned to classes at Huntertown and the Allen County Children's Home.

Through experiments and class discussions, psychology enables students to analyze the motivations and behavior of themselves and others.

Sociology, or in the common language of the Carroll High student, "soc," is designed to complement psychology with the study of man and his relationships with others.

Language Department adds Latin

Latin is the newest addition to the Foreign Language Department. Although Latin and German are taught in the traditional manner, Spanish utilizes the audio-visual-lingual approach with movies, film strips and supplemental tapes.

RIGHT—Using the language lab improves the speaking ability of foreign language students. Listening to a tape are Mrs. Duff, instructor, Theresa Ransbottom and Jill Hedges.

Health and wisdom = contentment

The Work-Study Program prepares students for the world of occupation by acquainting them with job opportunities available in the community and by giving each student actual job experience along with academics.

In addition to basic first aid training, students ponder the drug scene in health classes as they learn the effects of drugs and narcotics on the human anatomy.

Films and outside information on health supplement text book readings.

Marvin Fick, Diane Lyon, Ken Ramsey and Laura Ransbottom record muscle movements with a kymograph.

Science students delve deeper

The Science Department's aim is to deepen the student's understanding of the world around him through several subjects.

Earth Science, taught by Michael Berkey, the only new staff member in the Science Department, provided the students with basic knowledge of the earth and stars.

Biology and advanced biology, both lab courses, involve probing into life at the cellular level and investigating tissues, organs and systems.

In chemistry, another lab course, students investigate the basic principles of chemical activity, as well as becoming acquainted with atoms, molecules and compounds. This course gives students knowledge of the building blocks of all life.

Physics offers the opportunity to apply mathematical principles to science through extensive laboratory work.

Carroll's students emerge from the science program with a deeper awareness of themselves and the world around them.

Classes learn basics of business

For those students who are choosing a career in the busy realms of typewriters, adding machines, shorthand and business law the Business Department offers invaluable training in marketable skills.

Students interested in the business world may select courses which develop a useful comprehensive vocabulary of business terminology. Aspiring young secretaries develop knowledge and skill on several office machines.

A new course is personal typing, offered for those interested in developing the skill for their own individual use.

Linda Kuehnert, a tenth grade typist, remembers the efforts spent mastering the home row keys. Now, timed writings constantly challenge her speed.

BELOW—Debbie Keller assists Malea Warner.

Mathematics contributes explanations

Year by year a student is introduced to the mathematical fundamentals needed to study higher forms of math and later help him with his future career. Ranging from general math to trigonometry, Carroll presently offers five courses in math.

Vo Ag joins learning with skills

As a money-making project, Ag Mechanics boys built and sold portable barns. J. Arnold, R. Wells, R. Anderson, P. Warner and L. Ott add final touches.

Vocational Ag in Carroll gives many students an open door into the fields of farming and home improvement.

In Ag Mechanics, boys can maintain projects in welding and carpentry and can learn to deal with sales transactions in the business of farming.

Ag Production and Ag Science prepare students for college as well as for future vocations in agriculture by teaching the science and production of plants, animals and farming methods.

Horticulture is open to both boys and girls who are interested in landscaping, floriculture and turf management.

Lona Worman demonstrates Mr. Homer Schipper technique while working on the portable barn.

Horticulture students, C. Browning, R. Trahin, D. Schipper and S. Bowser plant shrubbery in order to improve the school grounds.

P. Greener, R. Price and S. Bowser prune trees.

RIGHT—Modeling a suit which she tailored is Theresa Malcolm who was the recipient of the Betty Crocker Homemaking award.
BELOW—Home projects are displayed for other girls to view.

Homemaking skills promoted in class

The aroma of freshly baked cookies often escapes from the home economics area where in addition to learning how to bake and cook, girls learn about consumer buying, food budgets, nutrition and meal planning.

The newest models of kitchen appliances enable the students to learn basic and advanced culinary skills.

Clothing courses include the study of fabrics and designs as well as sewing techniques, tailoring and advanced clothing construction.

Classes in family living and home management discuss the problems of the everyday family. Housing classes involving decorations and furnishings round out the home economics offerings.

RIGHT—Cooking up a tasty dish are Joy Silvers, Cheryl Biddle and Teresa Sells.

Lona Worman demonstrates the proper sewing technique while Becky Thomas offers some timely advice. Both learned tailoring in the advanced clothing class.

Industrial Arts train youth for

This group of "courses for the future" is a package of several programs. Included are woodworking, power mechanics and (eventually) electricity.

Mastering the ability to transmit objects seen into small scale drawings, a skill mastered by only a few, has been the goal of those enrolled in Drafting I through IV.

Major woodworking projects have stemmed all the way from a peg board to that old standby, coffee tables.

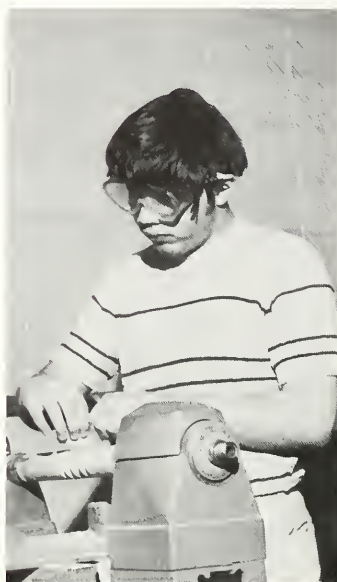

Power mechanics is essentially just that—the art of operating power machinery.

All in all, concentration, a good hand and a good eye provide the necessary natural skills for industrial arts.

RIGHT—Gary Adams is showing achievement as he operates the wood lathe.

BELOW—A steady hand is essential when using the saws is discovered by Chris Ward.

BELOW RIGHT—Bill Speakman works with the lathe, which holds and turns articles of wood and metal while they are being shaped and polished.

Artists arouse interest

Hard work and long hours were used this year as the art students joined with school musicians in bringing to the stage "Amahl and the Night Visitors" and "Cinderella."

Along with regular class work, art students were also kept busy making spirit posters and decorating their showcase.

Mr. Steve Bennett

Music enhances lives of students

BELOW—Rick Horstmeyer and Kathy Levander represented Carroll High School in the State NISBOVA Contest.

The fine arts in Carroll help keep a well balanced curriculum as many music minded students include band and choir in their schedules.

The choir not only improves the vocal chords, but provides several concerts and musicals during the year. This time it was through "Amahl and the Night Visitors" and "Cinderella" that Carroll's student body gained an appreciation for the world of music and theatre as well as for the talents of their classmates.

The band, directed by Walter Sloffler, not only provides the musical background for Carroll's theatre presentations, but also offers several musical concerts of its own.

Patti Kring demonstrates her ability to perform a straddle vault over a side horse.

Instructors are Mrs. Elsie McAlexander and Mr. Herm Moyer.

Pyramid perfection is practiced by the girls.

Tara Karns balances with ease on the uneven parallel bars.

PE develops body, sportmanship

Aiming to develop the physical and social development of the individual through vigorous sports and gymnastics, the Phys Ed Department emphasizes both individual and team sports.

In addition to competitive sports and daily exercises, emphasis is placed on the development of good sportsmanship as well as on physical fitness.

Climbing a rope, military style, is Dave Bush.

Challenging the competitive
Nature of man
It perfects the body
Whether it be on a field
Or in a classroom
I compete
To prove my worth
And hopefully
I stumble upon the meaning
Of my existence
It tests me
I test it
I test INVOLVEMENT.

ATHLETICS

BELOW—After out-maneuvering East Noble in the closing seconds, the Chargers are triumphantly escorted to the dressing room by excited spectators.

After achieving a 13-8 slate the previous season, the 1971 Big Blue Machine went one step better with a 14-6 mark. They finished number one in the state in defensive average, holding opposing teams to a miserly 54.2 points per game.

In the free throw department a 71.9 average garnered the Moyer Men a ninth place rating in Indiana.

Upsets seemed to be the theme of this year's team. Time and again the Charger squad made fools out of area sports writers by beating some of the best teams in northeastern Indiana.

A victory against East Noble gave Coach Herm Moyer an early Christmas present as the Chargers edged out a 70-69 victory.

Pandemonium reigned in the Carroll gym as the Chargers pulled the upset of the year by downing Leo, 56-50. Rated number 19 in the state, undefeated and county tourney champs, the Lions were expected to chew the Chargers up.

But the hard work and determination of the team gave them the win. The victory was sweet revenge since Leo had eliminated the Moyer Men only a week before in the County Tourney.

Drawing North Side in the Sectional, the Chargers battled the Redskins, bowing out of tourney play 66-60.

With records falling at nearly every meet, Holderman's Heroes enjoyed the best record yet of any Charger track team.

An unusually large turnout gave the thinclads unprecedented depth in nearly every event.

A stunning victory over a city school, Bishop Dwenger, and arch-rival Busco in a triangular meet, set the pace for a winning season. Only losses to county powers Norwell and Leo, and city giants Snider and Huntington, marred the highly successful season.

Six track records were broken, as regional qualifier Rick Horstmeyer seized both the high jump and low jump records; Jack Reusser broke both hurdle records; Dan Gerard smashed the pole vault record; and Gary Click took the mile run record.

Young harriers finish co-champs

Youth seemed to be the theme of the 1970 edition of Carroll High School's Cross Country Team. A combination of graduation plus the fact that not one senior went out for this year's squad left head coach Dean Merryman faced with the task of training a team made up of underclassmen.

However, the young Chargers came through with flying colors as they compiled an impressive dual meet record of 12 wins and only two losses. On top of that, the harriers were conference co-champions, won the ACAC meet, and placed second in the Churubusco Invitational.

Most valuable runner, Gary Click, a Junior, was the individual conference champion as he placed first in the ACAC meet held at Eel River Golf Course. He also shattered the old school individual record of 10:01 at Shoaff Park.

In the Sectional, the team faltered and finished ninth, ending the season on a somewhat sour note.

But with the entire squad returning for the '71 season, the "ponies" should do nothing but improve.

The 1971 golf team came up with a much improved record, so it was no surprise when the golfers obtained a second place in the county meet.

Led by Jim McCrady with an 80, the Carroll golfers lost only to Homestead. Jim's score was good for a runner-up medalist spot, and he was named to the all-conference team.

The season's best meets were a 220-226 win over Dwenger; a 210-226 slaughter of New Haven; and a 229-250 destruction of Woodlan.

Carroll nine compiles 8-0 record

The 1970 summer baseball season gave the Charger baseball team its most victorious season. The Chargers won all eight of the conference games, but lost to Leo in the finals of the conference playoffs.

Blending timely hitting with great pitching and catching led by Bill Gump who achieved the highest season ACAC batting average of .400 and by Doug McComb who won 6 games and broke all strikeout records, the Carroll diamond men won the coveted regular season championship.

In the 1971 IHSAA tournament, the Chargers participated in the Columbia City area and won CHS's first sectional game ever by wiping out Homestead, 0-3. The team went on to even greater things by defeating a tough Warsaw nine, 1-0 during the semi-finals.

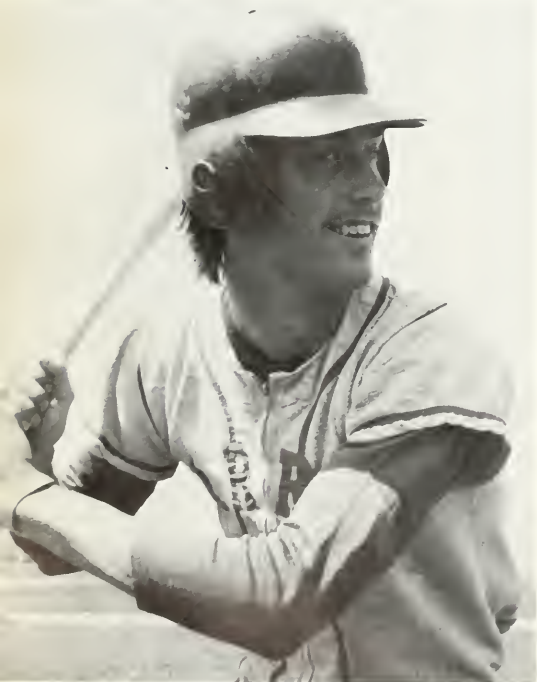

Charger hopes for a sectional crown were destroyed when Columbia City toppled them 4-1.

Throughout the sectional, the team was led by the pitching of Bill Gump and Tom West and the hitting of Steve Herdman.

Mahnesmith's Manglers wrestle

Starting from scratch, Carroll High School's first varsity wrestling team compiled an outstanding record of five wins and two losses, tied for second in the Homestead Invitational and placed number 13 in the sectional.

Underclassmen dominated the first Charger mat squad as only Seniors with previous wrestling experience were allowed to try out for the team.

Coached by Ed Mahnesmith, the Manglers achieved their wins by defeating Adams Central, Wabash, Triton, Prairie Heights and Columbia City. A thorough trouncing by Woodlan plus a two-point squeaker to Homestead were the only losses.

The reserves compiled a 4-4 mark.

Team captain Jack Reusser was individual champion in the Homestead Invitational and finished fourth in the sectional.

Jack's brothers, Tom and Hugh, along with Fred Pion were also individual champions at the Homestead meet.

The first year of wrestling in Carroll was a successful one, a year that points to greater conquests in the future for CHS wrestlers.

Coach Mahnesmith congratulates team captain Jack Reusser as he presents him with his trophy on Awards Day. Jack compiled a personal season record of 9-3 and led the squad in pins with eight. Jack also received a trophy for being voted the most valuable wrestler.

Girls compete with ACAC teams

In a spirit that would make Women's Liberation jump for joy, GAA girls dominated the Carroll sport set.

This season's track team, under the coaching of Elsie McAlexander, came in fourth in the district meet, followed by fourth place in the regional.

The tracksters finished the season as second in ACAC play.

The varsity volleyball team, supervised by Mary Andrew, fought its way past tough touring teams to emerge as runner-up to Homestead in the 1970-71 GAA volleyball tourney.

Although the softball team did not play in any tourney, they engaged in games with Leo, Churubusco and Heritage for a successful season.

Intramurals add variety to Carroll

You needn't be a Wilt Chamberlain or a Lew Alcindor to make the sports scene at Carroll High School.

If you haven't the speed or ability to make a varsity, an alternative is to join intramurals. These "teams for fun" consist of a wide variety of sports including basketball, volleyball, ping pong and peg board. Teams are formed and competition starts as the activity period becomes the scene of athletic activity.

Special attractions include a basketball shooting contest, volleyball and basketball tourneys and ping pong singles and doubles tourneys.

Five hundred students under the direction of Mary Andrew and George McKinney find themselves involved in these sports.

Ping pong provides a welcome diversion from classes for Nancy Newhall during activity period.

Team members stand ready to continue play during a game as Trina Roach sets the ball.

Cheerleaders ignite enthusiasm

It was "Charge 'Em Chargers" as enthusiastic cheerleaders excited the fans and energetic pep club members to spread Charger fever to the tune of victory for the 1970-71 athletic seasons.

Neither rain, sleet nor snow stopped the cheerleaders or the pep block dressed in their battle dress of blue and white, as they backed the team and enthused the crowds with their loyal cheering.

Senior Melissa Amstutz, captain of the squad, and the only varsity member to be lost by graduation, is not a stranger to the Carroll sports fans as she has sported six years of active cheerleading experience.

Chants by optimistic crowds launched into action the pep sessions that unified the fans, the pep block, the cheerleaders and the team into the ever exciting "Big Blue Machine."

Eager staff improves yearbook

The thirteen eager members of the Cavalier staff worked diligently to produce a new and different yearbook.

Containing larger pages and five color pictures, the yearbook was made financially possible through money-making projects, patrons, subscriptions and advertisements.

Such routine tasks as laying out pages, choosing and cropping pictures, writing cutlines and body copy and counting headlines, were made easier when the twelve students in Yearbook Production Class took over the planning of twenty pages. This freed the regular staffers for more important jobs such as soliciting advertisements and planning overall policy.

Carroll Times causes change

Under the talented leadership of Mary Heck, the CARROLL TIMES for the third year proved that the school newspaper can be a vital factor in student life.

The TIMES played a major role in the adoption of the horse as the Charger mascot and the new dress code which allows girls to wear slacks to school.

A youthful and energetic staff did not let minor financial problems affect the production of the paper. Many imaginative schemes, such as the showing of films during activity period, helped the newspaper to stay on its financial feet.

The staff received new blood when several students from Journalism I Class joined them in mid-semester to help lighten the load and train for the production of next year's CARROLL TIMES.

NHS is an academic challenge

In high school, emphasis is placed on competition—on winning. For Carroll, a distinction is made for achievers in scholastic activities as well as sports events. One such distinction is National Honor Society. Students with a "B" average or better are selected on the basis of scholarship, extracurricular activities and special achievements. A committee of faculty members comprise the "board of selectors."

Although NHS is an honor organization, the club often finds time to sponsor several projects for the student body.

Highlights of the year include the float for Homecoming, the Area Conference held in CHS on November 14 and the State Convention trip to Indianapolis in the spring.

Y-Teens undertake new projects

"Sounds of the 70's" the Y-Teen dance, started the school year's activities. To encourage membership, the Y-Teens held a pot-luck supper at which Connie Crance was selected as representative for Miss Cavalier. The annual Thanksgiving and Christmas food drives were held with great success.

Thirty Y-Teens and their dates danced to the music of the Castaways at the semi-formal Christmas dance, "A Moment under the Mistletoe."

Neither snow, ice or freezing temperature could keep the Y-Teens from attending the Winter-Week End at Dallas Lake.

In January, Y-Teens became proud mothers when they "adopted" Douglas Wright from the Children's Home. With more service projects and activities, the Y-Teens' year drew to a close with the Mother-Daughter Tea and installation of officers at Y-Teen Camp.

Forensic club gains recognition

The school's forensic club aimed to better the spoken word through competition. Promoting interest in speech and developing good public speaking provided the initiative for the NFL.

Participating in twelve speech meets, the speakers contended in eight different solo events. The National Forensic League brought back more ribbons and trophies than the year previous. A total of 32 individual ribbons, one individual trophy and one team trophy were added to the show case.

With early morning bus trips, the NFL's traveled throughout the state including Lafayette, Howe, Peru, Columbia City, Heritage, Warsaw, Elmhurst, New Haven and Southwood.

Archery, badminton and pingpong

With archery and badminton among the new sports added, the GAA has the largest variety of activities ever available for its members to participate in.

During the school year, the Girls Athletic Association adopted a new point system and a constitution which stresses that in order for a girl to become a member for a second, third or fourth year, she must have earned at least 50 points the previous year.

The GAA, already the largest and most active club in the school, hopes this will stimulate the girls to even more action.

Two bowling teams, consisting of the girls who received the top ten averages for at least 16 games, bowled in the state bowling tournament. A GAA volleyball team also competed in the state tourney in the fall and the ACAC Tourney in the spring.

Student Council alters dress code in 1970-71

Finding an answer to the dress code problem proved to be a major accomplishment of the CHS Student Council. Through the work of a committee, student-faculty conferences were held which ended by allowing girls to wear slacks to school.

The Council sponsored Carroll's first Homecoming, "Charge 'em Chargers." Activities included a tricycle race, pep session, parade, the crowning of Queen Debbie Kimmel and a dance after the football game.

The Council members sold donuts during tourney and sectional time to promote spirit. The constitution was revised, Christmas decorations were provided for the school and tours were given to patrons on dedication day.

"Listen to the songs we sing!" was the request of the Choraleers in their opening song before audiences this year.

This talented group of singers met as an organization to present both religious and secular concerts. They sang at various banquets in the Fort Wayne area and delighted the student body with programs on several occasions.

Some of their more popular renditions were of "Georgy Girl," "Onward Christian Soldiers," and "Which Way America?"

Media members assist librarians

Student librarians, Janice Banks and Connie Hobbs, spend at least one hour daily working in the Carroll Library.

Purchasing books, clipping articles to keep the files updated and assisting the librarians in checking out materials are just a few of the duties of the members of the Carroll High Media Club.

Formerly named the Library Club, the new Media Club handles not only books, but also filmstrips, records, tapes, transparencies, globes, maps, magazines, information and occupational file materials.

Membership in the club requires a student to work in the library at least one period daily.

Projects during the fall included the Annual Book Fair and the Hoosier Student Librarian Convention. In February, members sponsored their Annual Sweetheart Dance.

time to serve needs of others

Serving as guidance secretary is Mrs. Mardell Messmann. She also helps to keep students in line during study hall.

To keep pace with the ever-demanding needs of students and to put into operation the directives of the administrators, many give time to serve the needs of others.

Audio-visual materials are kept available by A-V assistants. Two students operate the school bookstore.

Student secretaries, enrolled in business classes, keep busy typing and duplicating instructional material.

Many phys ed assistants give freely of their time to be able to do what they like best.

Book rental and study halls are a big part of the life of Mrs. Messmann.

Each person involved in serving others receives a reward in return—a sense of accomplishment for a job well done; the satisfaction of working and cooperating with others; the enjoyment of making and being a friend to someone.

home football, basketball games

"Ladies and Gentlemen, Carroll High School proudly presents the Carroll High School Marching Band under the direction of drum majorette, Diana Surfus."

With a blast of the whistle and the beat of the drums, the band is off to another year of marching and performing.

Although it was their first year of Marching on Carroll's new field, the band never failed to thrill the audiences with their precision drills and routines.

After cold weather set in, the band abandoned the football field for the warmer climate of the gym.

Directed by Walter Sloffer, the musicians played for the drill team and the twirlers during basketball games.

In November, the band performed at Carroll's dedication. In March, the musicians took to the road to tour the other schools in our corporation.

The band played at the Allen County Nursing Home. A combined choral-band concert was presented in the spring.

The mighty Carroll Marching Band forms the electrifying C of Charger Country.

Graciously reigning over the festivities of Carroll's band is Queen Jill Hedges.

Twirlers, drill team create color add zest to home athletic events

Marching to the beat of the Senior drummers, the drill team members made their first appearance of the 1970-71 school year on the football field at Homecoming.

Spectators enjoyed halftime entertainment at basketball games by the lively Pacesetters (Juniors and Seniors) and by the Cavaliers (Underclassmen).

Their practice sessions involving much drilling paid off and in ending their successful marching season, the Pacesetters gave special recognition to all of their Senior members.

Everyone got into the act at Christmas—even Dennis Bucher and Mrs. Biggs!

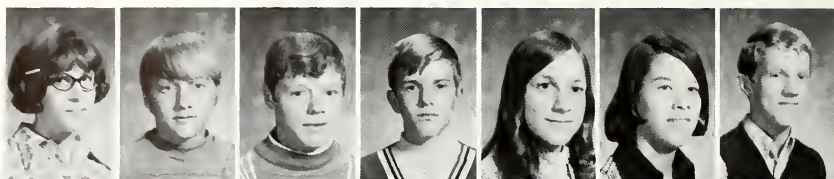

It makes me
Respond
To the feeling of others
And through this experience
I become less selfish
I choose individuals
Over carbon copies
I turn nameless faces
Into lifelong friends
It creates me
I create it
I create INVOLVEMENT.

Malea Warner, Doug Kincaid (kneeling), Jill Clark and Craig Kaylor are Boys and Girls State choices.

Goodbye to an unforgettable year . . .
 Goodbye to our cluttered, unorganized room . . .
 Goodbye to missing pictures . . .
 Goodbye to our get-rich-quick schemes (that always failed) . . .
 Goodbye to temperamental photographers . . .
 Goodbye deadlines that we could never meet . . .
 Goodbye donuts at 1:20 a.m. . . .
 Goodbye 1971 . . .
 Goodbye CHS.

Fun times, sad times
Become lost times . . .
Unless they achieve immortality
Between the covers of a book.
Some say yearbooks
Can make time stand still.
THEY CAN.

All of the experiences of yearbook editor that lay ahead of me only a short time ago are now behind me and part of the past.

There were times when plans and preparation seemed useless and work to be completed seemed endless. The experiences, however, were rewarding, the pressure at times great—but challenging, and the new acquaintances and friendships enriching.

Without the help of many people the CAVALIER could not have been made possible and I would like to extend my thanks to them: the staff for their hard work and support, the Journalism I class for all their added assistance, and especially our advisor, Mrs. Clark, for guiding and supervising us in our work.

A special thanks goes to the administration, teachers and students for their understanding, support and encouragement which did much to help the progress of the book. Thanks also to the staff, my family and friends who understood when times seemed unbearable.

It has been a great year, filled with memories of lost pictures, missing photographers, an over-expanded budget and working on layouts until two in the morning, but we have tried to capture within these 176 pages the memorable happenings of 1971. I hope you enjoy YOUR book, the 1971 CAVALIER.

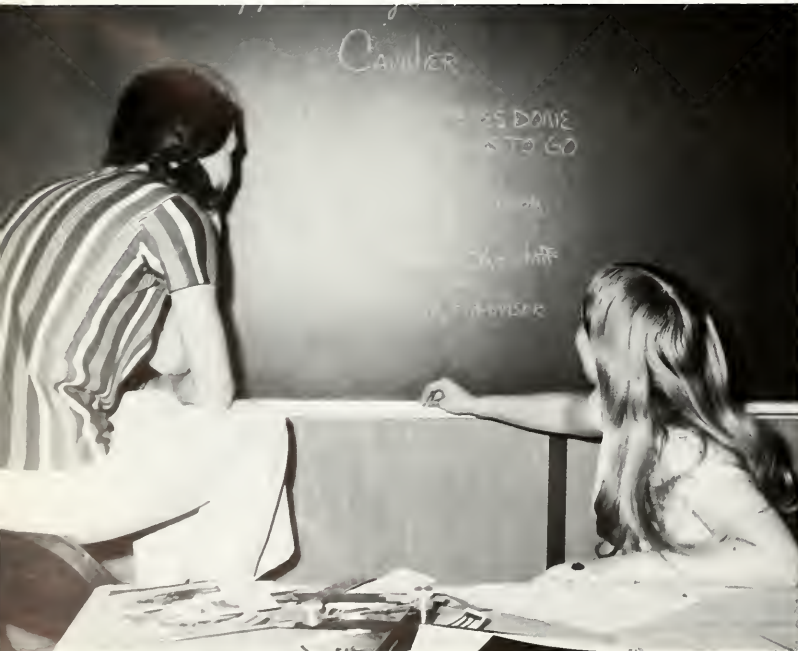

Kathy

LEFT—Associate Editor Kelly Myers and Editor Kathy Bobay desperately try to finalize plans for the yearbook.

BELOW—The 1971 CAVALIER staff goes to all heights to obtain a good picture.

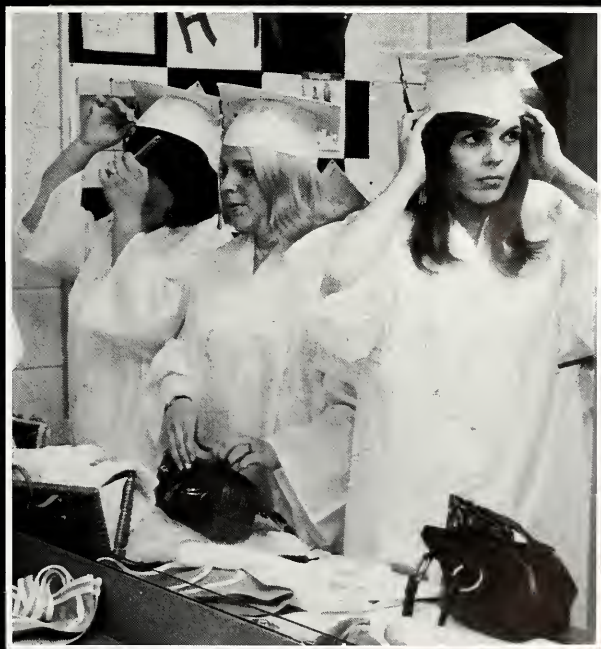

I participated
To end this awful isolation
I existed
In an audience reaction
Yet I stood alone
Surrounded by my individual
Endeavors
Engrossed in thought
I leave my security
For the FUTURE.

EPILOGUE

A beginning
And yet
An end
No one can Escape its Influence.

It touched me
I touched it
I touched
INVOLVEMENT.

OK YES WE KNOW WE ARE THE BEST

We're glad it's over, but not sorry it began.
